

TAKLA
OUTFITTERS

WHERE tradition MEETS adventure

On the borders of the traditional Takla lands lies over 2,700 square miles of protected, remote wilderness. For thousands of generations Takla Nation hunted these lands, led by deep-rooted culture and tradition.

Takla Outfitters is where this tradition meets the northern hunting experience. Our guided hunting retreats are an immersive adventure rich with Indigenous culture, storytelling, ceremony and the rugged wilderness you can only find in northern British Columbia, Canada.

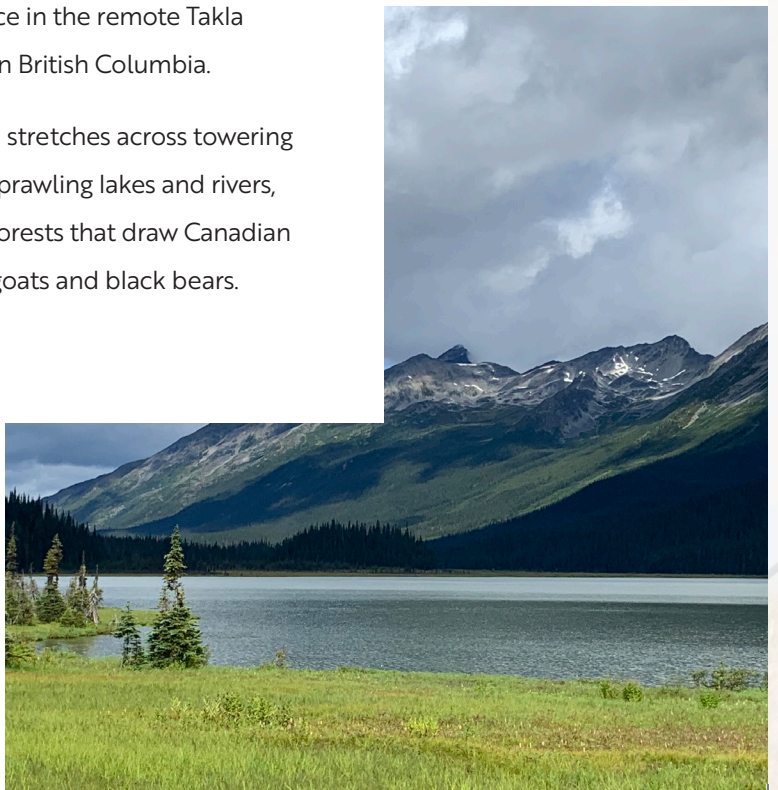

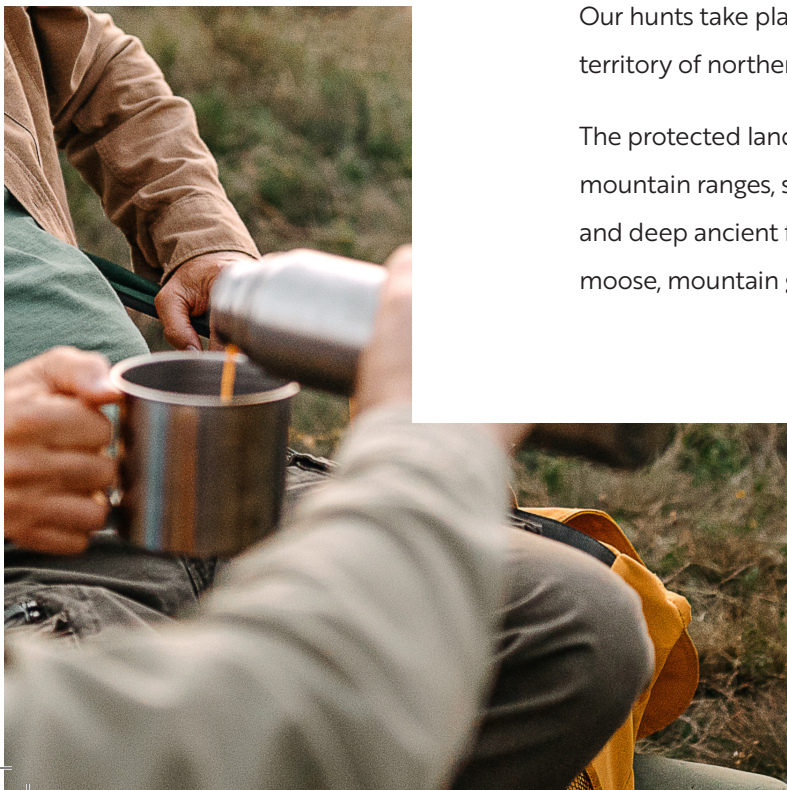

OUR hunts

Our hunts take place in the remote Takla territory of northern British Columbia.

The protected land stretches across towering mountain ranges, sprawling lakes and rivers, and deep ancient forests that draw Canadian moose, mountain goats and black bears.

THE cultural experience

The Takla people have hunted these lands for thousands of generations. Traditional practices, culture, ceremony and storytelling are embedded into each adventure to create a unique and immersive hunting experience.

CEREMONY

Guests will be welcomed through a traditional ceremony with balsam bows that cleanse our mind, body and spirit, and prepare us for the work ahead.

HISTORY

Hides, artwork and artifacts that symbolize the history of the Takla people and our culture will be embedded throughout the camp.

TRADITION

Guide Outfitters share stories about the lands and people, and lead the traditional harvesting of the animals with tobacco and prayer.

HUNT species

CANADIAN MOOSE

Our lands offer a prime habitat for Canadian moose. Our more remote locations have healthy moose populations unaffected by hunting. Mature bull moose average between 45 to 55 inches. Most moose hunt locations provide the opportunity for combination hunts, so consider adding mountain goat or black bear to your hunting experience. The best time for moose hunting is when the rut starts in the middle of September until the third week of October.

MOUNTAIN GOAT

A strong population of mountain goats are found in the Skeena regions. The Takla area has a long history of producing fine billies. The mountain goats in our region are genetically larger, and it is not uncommon to find billies 9"-10" class with a body weight of 300 pounds. Most of our mountain goat hunts happen in September when the weather is usually stable and the goats' coats are enhanced as fall sets in.

BLACK BEAR

We have two great locations with vast numbers of black bears that have rarely been hunted in the past decade. Our hunts run from mid-May to the end of June when the bears' coats are in their finest condition. The bears range in size from 6' to 7 ½' and can weigh as much as 400 pounds.

OUR camps

Our connection with the land is important and something we like to share with our clients.

Our accommodations reflect the beautiful and peaceful land we are on, whether it be through our log structure cabins or wall tents, we strive to provide a comfortable, yet, traditional experience.

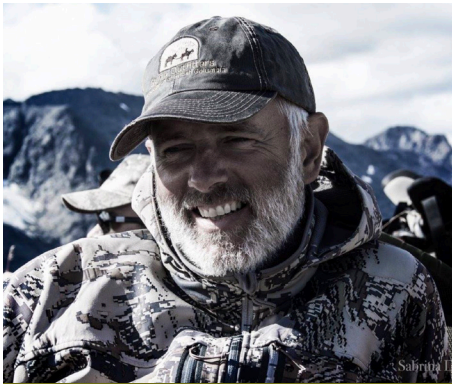

FLY-IN

Guests fly into Smithers Airport, located just a few kilometers out of town with daily service from Vancouver with Hawkair or Air Canada.

Our guides will pick you up from Smithers Airport and drive you to our floatplane launch on Tyhee Lake, approximately 20 minutes away. From here, it's only a 20 to 30-minute floatplane trip with Alpine Lakes Air LTD into our remote camp location.
